Doesn't provide the detail I expectedBy CustomerI expected that this book would provide some insight beyond that which one could gain with basic legal research. I was wrong.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Buy the Book itselfBy Sam DeSantisGreat information!! I wish I purchased the book itself for easier references purpose vs kindle version

Mold law and litigation is a complex area and often requires numerous professional disciplines to address it. Detailed information is often difficult to find. This book will provide you with that information. It offers critical background information for context, covering such topics as exposure, illness, allergic reactions, types of claims filed, and insurance issues. It offers a detailed look at the most important elements of mold law in critical states (now expanded to include 15 major states) where mold litigation has been prevalent. It also offers strategic advice to assist parties with mold litigation. This book is an indispensable guide for anyone interested in mold litigation.

About the AuthorJoel L. Herz concentrates in complex environmental and related litigation matters. He graduated from the University of Michigan with honors in 1985, and the University of Michigan Law School in 1987. From 1987 to 1994, Mr. Herz practiced in the environmental and litigation practice groups with the New York office of Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver and Jacobsen. Over the past 22 years, he has handled more than 100 mold and other environmental proceedings or litigations for clients, including NL Industries, 3M, and Fruit of the Loom. His litigation practice includes cases under Superfund, environmental insurance, and various state environmental laws, as well as toxic tort and mold actions. He also counsels and assists clients concerning environmental compliance and how to limit environmental risks in transactions. Richard J. Valladares has experience in numerous areas of litigation including complex commercial litigation, personal injury defense, class action, construction litigation, products liability and insurance coverage litigation. Mr. Valladares' litigation and trial experience extends throughout all phases of a dispute, including pre-litigation negotiations, administrative investigations, trial, and appeal. In addition, Mr. Valladares advises a wide array of clients, from Fortune 500 Companies to the smallest entrepreneur, on commercial dispute resolution and litigation avoidance techniques.Ryan C. Grelecki is an associate in the Commercial Litigation group of Greenberg Traurig, LLP's Atlanta office. His practice focuses on a variety of complex commercial and business-related litigation, including construction litigation. Ryan has had a variety of experiences in all aspects of the litigation and dispute resolution processes, including the taking of fact and expert witness depositions, drafting and arguing various substantive motions and hands-on experience in trial, mediation and arbitration. Ryan received his J.D. from the Florida State University College of Law, where he served as a Notes Comments Editor and the Writing Research Editor for the Florida State University Law . While in law school, Ryan also served as a judicial extern to the Honorable Robert L. Hinkle, Chief Judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Florida. Ryan received undergraduate degrees in Marketing and Religion from The College of William Mary.
