Damiano Canapa : Trademarks and Brands in Merger Control (International Competition Law Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Trademarks and Brands in Merger Control (International Competition Law Series):

International Competition Law Series Volume 67 Trademarks and Brands in Merger Control, the first to cover intellectual property (IP) rights from the perspective of merger control, directly addresses the particular legal issues that arise and provides a comprehensive response to the question of how the European and Swiss competition authorities should treat trademarks and brands when assessing a merger. The role of IP rights in merger control procedures has not received the attention it warrants. Most research has focused on the assessment of intellectual property rights in anti-competitive conducts rather than on how a firm can monopolize a market by accumulating such assets. This is despite the fact that access to such assets, whether used or unused, is often a key factor, if not the only one, motivating mergers. Whats in this book:
