Meet Stan Braverman. Hero to all would-be U.S. citizens, he's an internationally-known immigration lawyer, aid to an undercover FBI agent, and hippie vigilante. Need a green card? Visa? Secret marriage in an elevator? He can do it all. Undocumented Truths is Stan Braverman's revealing and sometimes humorous memoir that documents challenging battles between the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the immigrants he represents. Jaws will drop as Braverman yanks you into his world of unbelievable stories about how he single-handedly ended the Vietnam War or the time he helped capture Saddam Hussein. Then he'll subtly tug at your heartstrings with tales of determination, love, and the hardships immigrants will endure to reach the American melting pot. Being an immigration lawyer is tough, and Braverman admits he's lost a few cases. But in these unforgettable vignettes, you'll soon find that under his steely lawyer facade beats a heart truly touched by the immigrants he's represented. Join Braverman as he unravels the stories of immigrants spanning across the nation and discover these Undocumented Truths.
